WASHINGTON PUZZLED OVER GERMANY'S REPLY

OFFICIAL FAMILY HOLDS DIFFERENT OPINIONS.

Change in Government Not Yet Fact-Test Has Not Been Met.

(By David Lawrence.)
Washington, Oct. 22.—(Copyright, N. Y. Evening Post.)—President Wilson discussed with his cabinet today the method by which America shall parke answer to Germany's new bid for Analysis of the German note evealed many different points of view in the president's official family, all of which many different points of view many different points of view many had offered and whether it was calculated to make the Germans come even further along toward the eventual goal of tangible admission of defeat, so that the military power and system could be conclusively regarded as broken.

Generally speaking, the German note puzzled Washington. Everybody in the government was disposed to inquire what was belvind the rather abject phraseology of the communication, a real effort to get peace without humilitation, or a clever dodge to provent the allied armies from further destroying German military power.

ailled armies from further destroying derman military power.
Some officials thought thry saw an awkward and clumsy effort of the Germans to tell the world that they sere really reforming their government and making it democratic, while at the same time to preserve their national pride, they were not willing to admit it in so many words.

But wherever the arguments, wherever the discussion, everyone came ever the discussion, everyone came back to the fundamental issue: Is Germany on the level or adroitly trying many on the level or adroitly trying back to the fundamental issue: Is Germany on the level or adroitly trying to maneuver out of a bad fix with her militaristic system intact? The New York Sun editorial of this morning coincides with the view of many of the president's cabinet members, who point cut that the whole matter "depends on the validity of the evidence now alleged by the present German government."

Germany claims her government has undergone "a fundamental change."
She points to a bill introduced in the reichstag. That bill hasn't passed the reichstag. That bill hasn't passed the national legislature and has as much standing as a bill introduced in the American congress, of which ! great majority never get further than our committees. There is no guarantee that the bill will be passed except the 'unshakable determination of the German people." man people."

TO SUPPRESS POLES

Berne. Oct. 22—(Havas.)—The German authorities have under consideration vigorous measures for the suppression of Polish propagands in the Polish provinces of Prussia. Some light is thrown on the state of affairs there by a violent scene in the municipal council of Posen. The demand was reade by Councillor Lewane-owsky that a Pole be appointed to a municipal office. The councillor made a speech in which he expressed entire symmetry for his "countrymen." "Long live Poland!" the councillor exclaimed. "Poland!" the councillor exclaimed.

HALF BILLION TOTAL

That Amount Subscribed by Sixth District to Four Loans.

While final reports have not reached the Federal Reserve bank in Atlants. St. Elmo Massengale, director of publicity for the fourth liberty loan campaign, writes that reports of county committees indicate that subscriptions in the Sixth district will not be less than $212,000,000.

He says that this is a remarkable showing when one considers the difficulties under which they worked during the recent campaign, due to the agitation over the proposal to fix the price of cotton and the epidemic of influenza which raged in some localities. With subscriptions to the fourth loan a total of more than a half billion dollars has been invested by the people of the Sixth district in United States government securities since the declaration of war, according to Mr. Massengale.
